Spring 2020 Semester ONLY Pass/Fail Language for Undergraduates

The university's deadline for undergraduate students to elect Pass/Fail status for the spring 2020 semester is extended until May 22, 2020. Effective for the spring 2020 semester only, limitations published in the university's catalog on undergraduate students electing Pass/Fail status for undergraduate courses will be suspended. Graduate courses being taken for credit by undergraduate students may not be elected for Pass/Fail status.

Thus, for undergraduate courses in the spring 2020 semester only:
 • Students may elect more than two courses in the spring 2020 semester only on a Pass/Fail basis.
 • Core writing courses and courses within major(s) and minor(s) disciplines may be taken Pass/Fail in the spring 2020 semester only.
• Students must notify the Registrar's Office by May 22, 2020 if they intend to take a course in the spring 2020 semester only on a Pass/Fail basis.
 • Once a student decides to change to Pass/Fail status from standard grading, the decision is not reversible; the Pass/Fail status stands.
• Courses elected for Pass/Fail status in the spring 2020 semester only do not count toward the fifteen (15) hours in undergraduate degree completion that may be taken on a Pass/Fail basis.
